Background

The Rights Information & Advocacy Centre Inc. (RIAC) is a not for profit organisation operating throughout central and north western Victoria, Geelong and southern New South Wales providing information, advocacy and support to people with disabilities, older people, their, families, carers and communities.

The Australian Government has provided funding for a National Disability Insurance Scheme Appeals Program which plays an important role in ensuring that National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) decisions are fair and robust. RIAC provides this program in a number of areas. There is a strong commitment to ensuring that the NDIS Appeals program is accessible and as non-adversarial as possible for people with disability and, as part of that commitment, all applicants seeking reviews by the Administrative Appeals Tribunal will be entitled to a support person.

This role involves both Advocacy and NDIS Appeals work.

Position Objective

The NDIS Appeals Support Officer will play a key role in providing support and assistance to applicants whilst they navigate the process of seeking an AAT review of NDIS decisions. There will be a strong focus on fostering 'self-advocacy' where possible. Where self-advocacy is not appropriate, the NDIS Appeals officer will, in partnership with the applicant, develop and implement a plan which will provide effective support. The incumbent will also have specific responsibilities for promotion and education within the community and will have a range of reporting and administrative responsibilities that are required for RIAC's quality assurance purposes and to meet funding body arrangements.

Key Roles & Responsibilities

Individual Support & Advocacy

- Foster self-advocacy (supporting individuals to put their own case before the AAT)
- Where self-advocacy is not appropriate, provide individual advocacy support, developing and implementing an individual plan in partnership with the applicant
- Assist applicants to navigate the process of seeking AAT review of Agency decisions, including preparing documents, attending conferences and hearings
- Refer to the Central Assessment Provider where legal issues are highlighted and a determination needs to be made as to whether legal assistance is warranted (for complex or novel legal cases)
- Work one-to-one with people with disability and/or their carers to ensure and facilitate their access to services, and equitable treatment within services;
- To ensure that all relevant Disability Advocacy Standards and legislation are complied with;
- To adhere to RIAC's policies, procedures & systems;
- To contribute to RIAC meeting advocacy targets;
- To maintain effective working relationships with relevant service providers, stakeholders and Government Departments;
- To ensure effective working relationships are developed and maintained with all other RIAC staff
- Have an understanding of individual advocacy and its relationship to the lives of people with a disability.
- Demonstrated commitment and a clear understanding to human rights and social justice.
- Ability to analyse, plan and implement advocacy strategies with or on behalf of people with disability.
- Knowledge of the disability and human services networks at regional, state and national levels and how they may impact on people's lives.
- An understanding, or the ability to quickly acquire an understanding, of all Acts of Legislation relevant to the lives of people with disability.
- Sound written and oral communication skills and computer skills, including the ability to prepare case notes, advocacy plans and other documents; liaise with stakeholders; promote the agency and communicate well with clients, colleagues and other agencies.

Training and Development

- Assist in the development of skills in self-advocacy – conducting individual or group sessions.
- Attend relevant training to develop skills and knowledge relevant to the role.
- Network with other support persons in the NDIS sites and liaise with the AAT as necessary.

Education and Promotion

- Provide a community education role by providing information about the availability and role of the support person.
- Develop promotional materials in a range of accessible formats.
- Identify potential education and promotional opportunities.
- Evaluate sessions and prepare reports on activities.

Administration and Reports:

- Collect and maintain client information on databases.
- Collate data and draft other reports as necessary

Other functions including:

- Identify systemic issues and trends.
- Actively contribute to RIAC meetings and participate in staff development initiatives.
